AGAP • Gesellschaft für Diplomierte in Analytischer Psychologie

ISAPZURICH wurde 2004 von der AGAP gegründet, einer internationalen Berufsorganisation, die seit 1954 in Zürich ansässig ist. Die AGAP gehörte 1956 zu den Gruppen der Jungianer, die die Internationale Gesellschaft für Analytische Psychologie (IAAP) gegründet haben. Als IAAP-Gruppenmitglied mit Ausbildungsstatus sorgt die AGAP für die IAAP-Akkreditierung der ISAP-Ausbildung. Die AGAP trägt somit dazu bei, die hohen professionellen Ausbildungs- und Ethikstandards des ISAP aufrechtzuerhalten—und qualifiziert alle Absolventinnen und Absolventen der ISAP-Diplomstudiengänge, über die AGAP Mitglied der IAAP zu werden. Heute hat die AGAP nahezu 400 Mitglieder in rund 30 Ländern weltweit. Da die AGAP die juristische Person fürs ISAP ist, sind Spenden ans ISAP, die über die AGAP erfolgen, in der Schweiz steuerlich absetzbar.

Spenden ans ISAP, die über die Stiftung «Jungian International Training Zurich» (JITZ) getätigt werden, sind in den USA steuerlich absetzbar.

AGAP • Association of Graduates in Analytical Psychology

ISAPZURICH was founded in 2004 by AGAP, an international professional organization that has been domiciled in Zürich since 1954. In 1956, AGAP was among the Jungian groups that founded the International Association for Analytical Psychology (IAAP). As an IAAP Group Member with training status, AGAP provides IAAP accreditation for ISAP's training. AGAP thus helps to maintain ISAP's high professional training and ethical standards—and makes all graduates of ISAP's Diploma Programs eligible for membership in the IAAP through AGAP. Today, AGAP has nearly 400 members in some 30 countries world-wide. Because AGAP is the legal entity for ISAP, donations to ISAP made through AGAP are tax-deductible in Switzerland.

Donations to ISAP made through the foundation Jungian International Training Zurich (JITZ) are tax-deductible in the USA.

ISAPZURICH, in conjunction with the IAAP Congress, opens its doors to share two painting collections.

The Blum Collection is a sequence of 43 paintings by David Blum donated to ISAP by Sarah Blum. This psychological legacy shows his journey grappling with cancer.

The ISAP Picture Collection comprises materials from clients who have been in analysis in the tradition of C.G. Jung's analytical psychology. The exquisite paintings of one of these artists will be exhibited.

Join us for an apéro to celebrate both collections on 28 August 19:00–20:00!

The Art of the Self

The Blue Book of Olga Fröbe-Kapteyn, founder of Eranos

Riccardo Bernardini, Ph.D., Psy.D.

Eranos founder Olga Fröbe-Kapteyn's (1881–1962) unpublished anthology of artwork, which we might rubricate under the name "Blue Book," is traceable to two distinct periods. The first phase is inherent in a series of "Meditation Plates" painted between 1926 and 1934: these images are expressed through a geometric rigor, eschewing any naturalism of form. As a result of her deepening of Analytical Psychology and the maturation of her intellectual relationship with C.G. Jung, one of the most influential figures in her life and among the most important inspirers of the Eranos Conferences, Olga Fröbe-Kapteyn's artistic practice increasingly turned toward a figurative style that recalled the active imagination, to which the works of the second period can be traced: a collection of 315

"Visions," arranged in 12 blue-bound albums, drawn between 1934 and 1938. Convinced that "The deepest things in human life ... can only be expressed in images," Olga Fröbe-Kapteyn documented in her "Blue Book" the forms of imagination of a creative and independent subjectivity, capable of holding together the identities of woman, mother, scholar, artist, and spiritualist. Olga Fröbe-Kapteyn perhaps hoped that her "Blue Book" would survive her and allow the generations that would follow her to rediscover and make it their own, as a special attestation of that endless search for Self, at once personal and universal, that Jung would theorize with the idea of "individuation process".

Traumdeutung nach C.G. Jung

- Träume überbringen uns Botschaften, die verstanden werden wollen. Sie reagieren auf Erleben und Gedanken aus dem Wachleben. Sie berichten von Gefühlen, die im Moment nicht wahrgenommen werden. Sie machen uns auf die tiefen Gründe für unser Verhalten aufmerksam.
- Ob bedrückend, verwirrend oder wunderschön, Träume sind eine heilsame und reichhaltige Quelle an Erkenntnissen über uns selbst.
- Die Träume haben ihre eigene Sprache; sie sprechen in Bildern ähnlich wie Märchen, Sagen und Religionen aller Zeiten. Wenn wir ihren Hinweisen und unseren Einfällen dazu nachgehen, werden verborgene Kräfte freigelegt.
- Welche Anregung will mir der Traum geben? Warum gerade jetzt?

Herbstsemester 2025
Dienstag, 2. September – Freitag, 5. Dezember

Alle Vorlesungen und Offenen Seminare sind für die Öffentlichkeit zugänglich. Seminare und Fallkolloquien sind für ISAP-Studierende reserviert. Wir ermutigen Sie, Kursbewertungen oder Feedback über unsere unten verlinkten Online-Formulare einzureichen.

Alle Angaben in diesem Programmheft sind korrekt bei Drucklegung. Voraussichtlich werden alle Kurse vor Ort im ISAP-Gebäude stattfinden, mit Ausnahme einiger Kolloquien, deren Veranstaltungsort in der Kursbeschreibung angegeben ist. Zusätzlich werden ausgewählte Kurse via Zoom übertragen, was ebenfalls in der Kursbeschreibung aufgeführt ist. Informationen zu Zoom-Veranstaltungen werden auf der ISAP-Website angezeigt.

Bei Seminaren und Kolloquien werden die angemeldeten Studierenden direkt über Änderungen informiert. Bei allen anderen Kursen gibt die ISAP-Website Auskunft über Änderungen (<https://www.isapzurich.com/de>). Synchronicity, Complexity and the Psychoid Field: Towards Re-Enchantment

This presentation will begin with a brief history of the origins and development of Jung's notions of synchronicity and the psychoid. Complexity and field theories will then be used to contemporize these ideas. Examples of synchronistic phenomena from the presenter's practice will be explored using this approach. Further selected examples from the history of culture (especially where artisans or artists were able to represent profound knowledge of highly-complex natural phenomena well ahead of any scientific understanding) indicating the reality of psychoid fields will be offered.

The Helper's Predicament

Participants will have the opportunity to explore the inner dynamics related to their helper role. Helpers, it's your turn (to take space and care for yourselves)!

Some of the questions we will explore:

- Who is the (my) helper child? What led me to become a helping professional?
- How does being a helping professional affect my life outside of my practice?
- How can I connect with and remain aware of my needs?
- How can I simply be a human being, rather than only (and always) a helper?

The Animus: Understanding Gender and a Practical Approach to Working with Archetypal Masculinity

I explain how the autonomous animus 'function' is both the drive to spiritual development as well as a requirement for mental health in order to create and be active/recognized in the world. The larger issue of how to work in the analytic process with gender is also important here. I will be looking at the question of understanding why gender is so central in our biological psyche and essential for our work on the dynamics of psychic energy. It promotes psychological health as well as individuation.

Practical Alchemy: A Roadmap for Working with the Unconscious

On the basis of Edinger's Anatomy of the Psyche, we explore how alchemical operations describe fundamental emotional states and how these states promote psychological healing. We will learn about the operations through beautiful slides as well as personal reflection. Inner reflection exercises will be private and not shared, but we will also work together to explore the emotional states of each 'operation'. Participants are asked to think of films, literature, fairy tales, and myths that capture the unique emotions of the operations. I will provide many clinical examples showing how mapping these states helps the analytic process.

Drawing Projections: Jung and Films

This seminar aims to explore psychological themes through the visual narrative structures of selected films. We will focus on a rather common theme in therapy: adolescence. We will use three films to discuss the personal and archetypal patterns of adolescence through the eye of the camera. The films will be shown at ISAP and will be followed by a discussion led by the presenters. We wish to provide the opportunity of the collective experience of viewing a film together followed by the chance to share ideas and impressions.

Persuasive Technologies—An Existential Threat?

In the first double hour I will screen the film The Social Dilemma (94 minutes, no subtitles) to show how toxic attitudes and disinformation, especially conspiracy theories, are spreading so rapidly. In the second double hour we will explore why they are doing so from a Jungian perspective. We will update the impacts of AI and examine the collective shadow contents projected, and other psychodynamic processes, using examples such as QAnon, the “Plandemic,” climate denial and now overt political manipulation.

The Dreaming Mind and the Unus Mundus

Jung said dreams are symbolic communications from the Self, compensating for the conscious attitude, arising from the collective unconscious, the place where the Unus Mundus – the world soul – speaks, as seen in Wolfgang Pauli's dream of the world clock (which developed his thinking about the structure of the atom).

Our minds form symbols using the executive network, the salience network, and the default mode network. Dreams develop empathy, memory and creativity, and connect us to the spiritual life of our planet through the transcendent function.

Myth, Trauma, and the Birth of Consciousness: How Babylonian & Norse Creation Myths Foreshadow Modern Neuroscience and Illuminate Depth Psychology

This course explores how Babylonian and Norse creation myths reveal deep psychological truths about trauma, consciousness, and the human struggle for order. Drawing from modern neuroscience and depth psychology, we examine how these ancient narratives foreshadow the brain's response to crisis and power dynamics. With rising global autocracy, we analyze why societies turn to authoritarian figures, repeating mythic cycles of destruction and renewal in history and politics. We will also explore individuation as a counterforce, fostering awareness and resilience against collective regression.

Hidden Pathways of Germanic Mythology

The lectures take a Jungian look at the Germanic cosmology, the main gods and the end of time. We will speak about neglected Germanic female and male archetypes and the consequences of cultural repression and mythological illiteracy. I will explain how the old Germanic culture created an unrecognised precondition of the modern world. I will develop the concept of cultural ecology, emphasizing Germanic female archetypes. And I will show how Odin's self-sacrifice designates him to become the wounded healer par excellence and the archetypal image for the Analytical Psychologist.

Cultural Complexes and Politics

Cultural identities and narratives have an essential impact on the self concepts of nations and their political behavior. In times of social media with mass manipulation, with reactivated enemy projections and digital anesthesia regarding war or ecocide, we see a revival of archaic archetypal patterns threatening the basics of democracy. Analytical Psychology can contribute to a better understanding of these dynamics and become a resource for inner balance.

Bitten and Bitten Again: An Archaic Magical Dance Ritual in Southern Italy

Tarantismo was an archaic ritual practice involving music, dance, colors, and a variety of symbols, used to heal women of a mythical spider bite. It was a mythical spider because only in rare cases had these women been bitten by an actual arachnid, even if most insisted that they had. The lecture will examine the symbolic meaning of the bite and its ritual healing, and explore the power of the ecstatic dance and its ancient Greek and Christian roots.

Mantis Creates the Elan Antelope and the Moon: From the Instinct of Hunger to the Instinct of Reflection

This myth of the Bush People tells how their deity Mantis creates the eland antelope—the most important food source to satisfy the basic hunger instinct. Yet Mantis is cast out by his family, causing him utmost anger, even suicidal melancholy. But a crucial moment forces him out of his solitude toward what Jung calls an archetypal image: he creates the Moon—the eternal symbol of death and rebirth—bringing light into darkness, consciousness into unconsciousness. His reflected light becomes an expression of what Jung calls “the instinct of reflection,” “the cultural instinct par excellence.”

The Shamanic Worldview, Shamanic Experience and Jungian Psychology

This lecture will present some important aspects and examples of the traditional shamanic worldview from cultures around the globe. What do they have in common with Analytical Psychology? According to C.G. Jung, “shamanistic symbolism [...] is a projection of the individuation process.” Citing Mircea Eliade, Jung held that during the shamanic trance, shamans find their true self. The shamanic trance is similar to Jung’s Active Imagination.

Zurich Lecture Series Postlude

“Your prayer increases the light of the star,” Septem Sermones: The Dawn of a New Aion?

At the end of the Septem Sermones ad Mortuos, we find a beautiful hymn, a poignant prayer to the one single Star in the zenith, to the one guiding God. “To this one God man shall pray... To him all love and worship is due.” It is your God, the true origin of life. This lecture will explore various passages in the Black Books and The Red Book which actually herald the dawn of a new stellar consciousness. The sun is no longer the primary symbol of the Self; rather it is the star. The sun has entered the underworld, the nocturnal world of the unconscious. This is the place of renewal.

“Surrender to Ultimate Reality”: An Exploration of Mysticism in World Religions

This lecture offers an introduction to mysticism, with examples from Christianity and other world religions. Evelyn Underhill’s classical definition of mysticism implies a “surrender... to ultimate Reality... from an instinct of love” (Mysticism, 1911).

Jung wrote his major work Mysterium Coniunctionis about the alchemical union, the “central mystical experience of enlightenment ... aptly symbolized by Light in most of the numerous forms of mysticism” (CW XI, §828). A second lecture, which follows in spring 2026, will study the relationship between Jungian psychology and mysticism and its relevance in analysis.

Anatomy of a Complex: Giants in Fairy Tales and Neuroscience

I will illustrate how complexes function using the example of giants in fairy tales. I will include a thorough review of the Word Association Experiment (if needed) and the dynamic structures of the psyche as they are involved in complexes and their activation. For me complex theory is one of the most practical and useful of Jung's insights. I will give many clinical examples of how complexes work and how to deal with them. As a couples therapist for 15 years, I found this approach one of the most powerful tools for the couples themselves. I will also look at neuroscience as a central aspect of psychiatry that substantiates Jung's theories.

Guess Who's Coming to Dinner: A Review of Jung's Complex Theory

This lecture provides a comprehensive review of Jung's theory of autonomous complexes, exploring their structure, function, and impact on the psyche. Complexes operate independently of the ego, influencing perception, behavior, and emotional states. Using Rumi's "Guest House" as a metaphor, we will examine how these psychic entities shape experience and how awareness of them can lead to greater psychological differentiation. Through a detailed exploration of Jung's writings, this lecture offers a deeper understanding of the complex as a fundamental mechanism of the psyche.

Working with Clients with Sexual Paraphilias (e.g. Paedophilia) in Analytical Psychotherapy

Sexuality remains a sensitive topic that is often avoided in psychotherapy. Many individuals feel uncertain or fearful about their sexual attractions. In this workshop we confront this avoidance by addressing various paraphilias including the delicate issue of paedophilia (that can especially lead to harmful situations). We will look at the development of paraphilias, explore their Jungian symbolism, and learn how to work with clients (of every gender) suffering from these attractions in a non-judgmental manner. Join us as we tackle this challenging yet crucial aspect of therapeutic practice.

Uncertainty: Is It a Gift?

We feel cultural foundations we have relied upon are upended: polarization, violent projections, anxiety abound. Have we access now to truth? Gifts psyche offers are creative gestures, found in energy from recalling projections, from exploring integrative projections, from locality and naming, and in new forms of communication and of liberation from destructive complexes.

Alternative Individuation: The Non-Understandable, Ineffable Way of East Asians

As Jungian analysts from Japan and the Philippines, we aim to highlight that the individuation process in East Asian cultures occurs differently and appears differently from what Jung suggested. In East Asia, individuation does not necessarily mean becoming an individual who differentiates him/herself from others. Rather, becoming conscious of being both an individual and a part of the collective, as well as striving for both individual and collective growth, is a more central concern. This lecture seeks to enrich the imaginative and creative space surrounding what the individuation process could be.

Analytical Psychology in the 21st Century: Imagining a Relationship with a Future

This presentation highlights and explores in depth two themes: the role of the productive imagination and the particularly analytical concepts of relationship – for the unconscious, between analyst and analysand, and for the individual in society. Jungian psychology, uniquely, initiates a dialogue between the reproductive and the productive imagination modeled in alchemy. Similarly, a creative dialogic relationship with the unconscious is fostered through the analytical process. Both imagination and relationship form healing modalities for the individual and for their role in society.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

“Therefore, I behold death, since it teaches me how to live.” (C.G. Jung, The Red Book)

The psyche is a self-regulating system. So, too, is nature. What happens to the psyche when nature is no longer self-regulating? What happens to the natural world when the psyche is no longer self-regulating? What does the possible demise of the natural world constellate in the psyche, and what role might analytical psychology play when considering this outcome?

Exploring What Lies Within

With tenderness and curiosity toward our psyche, we will use various modes of active imagination to uncover and acknowledge unclaimed aspects of ourselves. We will seek to become more conscious and accepting of our hopes, fears, wounds, and creative potential, and thereby become more alive and authentic. Participants are asked to bring lunch and contribute CHF 15 for art materials.

Images in Stone: Jung's Tower at Bollingen

This lecture is the culmination of an extensive collaboration between an architect and an analyst. I will present the story of Jung's tower as it is represented in Jungian literature along with an architectural understanding of the place. This lecture will review the history of the tower, its meaning to Jung and its meaning as Jung's "confession of faith in stone."

The Mystery of the Anthropos – An Approach to an Archetypal Image

The astrological sign of Aquarius represents a human figure pouring water from a jug into the mouth of a fish. C.G. Jung calls this figure Anthropos, an image of the greater human being in us, or, we might say, the collective unconscious or “everything human” in us. The Anthropos embraces the opposites of the human psyche and is the origin of the human capacity for empathy and relatedness as well as the emotional brutality and fanaticism of mass man in our time. For Jung the union of opposites was a lifelong concern.

The Body and its Sacred Mystery at the Heart of the Female Individuation Process: In Search of Truth in the Quest for the Holy Grail

Despite all the gifts of our intellectual education, many of us have become profoundly disconnected from our bodies. Have you ever wondered why the term “vulva energy” is not as commonly used in psychoanalytic discourse as “phallic energy”? How can we navigate both our inner and outer worlds simultaneously—and truly expand?

Cooking in the Alchemical Cauldron: Working with the Pelvic Floor

Within the feminine core resides a powerful force of life, death and regeneration—a sacred rhythm centered in the pelvic floor, often called a woman’s second heart, a Holy Grail. Unlike the physical heart, however, this center requires conscious engagement—an intentional ebb and flow, contraction and expansion—to remain vibrant and alive. Let’s expand together.

“Yearning is the Way of Life”: The Role of Longing in Mysticism and Individuation

Longing played a crucial role for Jung: “Yearning is the way of life. If you do not acknowledge your yearning, then [...] you do not live your life.” (Red Book, pp. 249–250). Longing was also essential for many medieval mystics, e.g. John of the Cross, Teresa of Ávila, Meister Eckhart and Rumi. The lecture will explore the nature of longing and its significance for individuation and spiritual development, through the writings of various mystics as well as of Jung.

Practical Introduction to Active Imagination Using a Shamanic Approach

The method of Active Imagination that Jung practiced in his Red Book is introduced using elements from Michael Harner’s “core shamanism”; the latter is similar to Jung’s Active Imagination. Harner’s method allows participants to discover and enter into a relationship with a rich inner spiritual world, with its landscapes and helpful figures, such as animals and teachers. (Students who have not attended this course in autumn 2023 or spring 2025 will be given priority.)
