AGAP • Gesellschaft für Diplomierte in Analytischer Psychologie

ISAPZURICH wurde 2004 von der AGAP gegründet, einer internationalen Berufsorganisation, die seit 1954 in Zürich ansässig ist. Die AGAP gehörte 1956 zu den Gruppen der Jungianer, die die Internationale Gesellschaft für Analytische Psychologie (IAAP) gegründet haben. Als IAAP-Gruppenmitglied mit Ausbildungsstatus sorgt die AGAP für die IAAP-Akkreditierung der ISAP-Ausbildung. Die AGAP trägt somit dazu bei, die hohen professionellen Ausbildungs- und Ethikstandards des ISAP aufrechtzuerhalten—und qualifiziert alle Absolventinnen und Absolventen der ISAP-Diplomstudiengänge, über die AGAP Mitglied der IAAP zu werden. Heute hat die AGAP nahezu 400 Mitglieder in rund 30 Ländern weltweit. Da die AGAP die juristische Person fürs ISAP ist, sind Spenden ans ISAP, die über die AGAP erfolgen, in der Schweiz steuerlich absetzbar.

Spenden ans ISAP, die über die Stiftung «Jungian International Training Zurich» (JITZ) getätigt werden, sind in den USA steuerlich absetzbar.

AGAP • Association of Graduates in Analytical Psychology

ISAPZURICH was founded in 2004 by AGAP, an international professional organization that has been domiciled in Zürich since 1954. In 1956, AGAP was among the Jungian groups that founded the International Association for Analytical Psychology (IAAP). As an IAAP Group Member with training status, AGAP provides IAAP accreditation for ISAP's training. AGAP thus helps to maintain ISAP's high professional training and ethical standards—and makes all graduates of ISAP's Diploma Programs eligible for membership in the IAAP through AGAP. Today, AGAP has nearly 400 members in some 30 countries world-wide. Because AGAP is the legal entity for ISAP, donations to ISAP made through AGAP are tax-deductible in Switzerland.

Donations to ISAP made through the foundation Jungian International Training Zurich (JITZ) are tax-deductible in the USA.

Kooperation mit dem C.G. Jung-Institut Stuttgart

Es gehört zum Wesen politischer Körper, dass sie das Böse immer bei anderen sehen, ebenso wie der Einzelne die fast unausrottbare Neigung hat, sich alles dessen, was er von sich nicht weiss und nicht wissen will, dadurch zu entledigen, dass er es dem anderen zuschiebt.

— C.G. Jung, GW 10, §576

It is in the nature of political bodies always to see the evil in the opposite group, just as the individual has an ineradicable tendency to get rid of everything he does not know and does not want to know about himself by foisting it off on somebody else.

— C.G. Jung, CW 10, §576

Traumdeutung nach C.G. Jung

- Träume überbringen uns Botschaften, die verstanden werden wollen. Sie reagieren auf Erleben und Gedanken aus dem Wachleben. Sie berichten von Gefühlen, die im Moment nicht wahrgenommen werden. Sie machen uns auf die tiefen Gründe für unser Verhalten aufmerksam.
- Ob bedrückend, verwirrend oder wunderschön, Träume sind eine heilsame und reichhaltige Quelle an Erkenntnissen über uns selbst.
- Die Träume haben ihre eigene Sprache; sie sprechen in Bildern ähnlich wie Märchen, Sagen und Religionen aller Zeiten. Wenn wir ihren Hinweisen und unseren Einfällen dazu nachgehen, werden verborgene Kräfte freigelegt.
- Welche Anregung will mir der Traum geben? Warum gerade jetzt?

The 19th Jungian Odyssey Annual Conference & Retreat

“[T]he frightening spectacle of an apocalyptic world situation”, as Jung writes (CW 10, §727), taking shape within and around us, can paralyze us with anxiety, even despair (Lat. desperare, “away from hope”). Despair, fear, and hope are all emotions with which we might approach our future. Yet only hope offers consolation, even inspiration, and a glimpse of something “beyond” and yet to be revealed. Traveling the course of hope, navigating the flight which this “thing with feathers” traverses, is at times arduous. In a sermon (of unknown date) exploring the theme of acceptance versus fatalism, Martin Luther King, Jr. captures it in this way: “We must accept finite disappointment but never give up infinite hope.” Tolerating uncertainty allows us to hope, and hope allows us to tolerate what is yet unknown. We can cultivate hope through connecting with our own vast inner world of ancient but living symbols, and conversely it is hope that gives us the space and courage to imagine the transformation that is poised to take place both within and around us.

“Authentic hope requires clarity – seeing the troubles in this world – and imagination, seeing what might lie beyond these situations that are perhaps not inevitable and immutable.”

- Rebecca Solnit, Hope in the Dark: Untold Histories, 2016

Spring Semester 2026
Tuesday, 3 March – Saturday, 6 June

All Lectures and Open Seminars are open to the public. Seminars and Case Colloquia are reserved for ISAP students. We encourage you to submit course evaluations or feedback through our online forms linked below.

All dates in this booklet are correct at the time of issue. It is planned that all courses take place live at ISAP, except certain colloquia for which the location is indicated in the course description. Additionally, some courses have been selected to be broadcast (Zoomed out). This is also indicated in the course description. Zoom information will be on the ISAP website.

For seminars and colloquia, registered students will be notified directly of changes. Changes to all other courses will be indicated on the ISAP website (<https://www.isapzurich.com/en>). Check this site before each such course for the latest changes.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Jung: From the Bottom Up

This is a very basic lecture on Jungian theory. What is a complex? What is the ego complex? What is an archetype? What is the relation between an archetype and a complex? What is the relation between an archetype and the Self? And why do we care about all this? What does this have to do with working as a Jungian analyst?

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

What is “I”?

According to Analytical Psychology, in the Western psyche, the ego is the centre of consciousness and the Self is the unifying centre of the whole psyche. However, Jung mentioned consciousness without an ego in the psyche of the East. We will examine the concepts of the ego and the Self through the lens of a non-Western psyche.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

Foundational Steps in the Unfolding of the Ego-Self Relationship

We will explore key achievements, stages, and processes in the lifelong encounter between the ego and Self. What does Jung mean by postulating two centers of authority within? How do they relate to one another? When are they in tension? We will examine the role that differentiation, integration, and discernment play in the ego-Self interaction in our journey toward individuation.

“Drawing Projections,” Jung and Films

This seminar aims at exploring psychological themes through the visual narratives of selected films. This semester we will be focusing on the theme of individuation. We will be using three films to focus on the theme of how the concept of individuation can be explored and discussed through the film material we have selected. The films will be shown at ISAP. The viewing will be followed by discussions led by the presenters. We wish to provide our students with the opportunity for the collective experience of viewing the films together, followed by the chance to share our impressions.

Jungian Perspectives on Cancel Culture

Cancel culture has become a highly contentious social issue that sharply polarises opinion: its defenders regard it as a strategy to highlight and combat social injustice, while its critics raise concerns about freedom of expression and the creation of a climate of intolerance. This interactive seminar explores aspects of the phenomenon from a Jungian perspective – including archetypal patterns of shaming, ostracism, and punishment, cultural complexes, confrontation with the collective shadow and collective intergenerational trauma.

Introduction to Authentic Movement

I will give an introduction to the practice of Authentic Movement, which is a form of active imagination. I will introduce body work to create a safe environment and offer brief experiences of body awareness, emotional awareness, and kinesthetic communication. The theory will also be explained. Authentic movement explores the inner-directed physical movement as a way to bridge the realms of conscious and unconscious experience. Participants are requested to wear comfortable clothes, to take off their shoes before entering the room, and to bring anti-slip socks, as well as paper and a pen.

Multicultural Analysis: Bridging Worlds

In the analytic setting an encounter with cultural trauma is intertwined with the patient's personal history and traumas, shadow dynamics and the cultural complexes of both the patient and the analyst. The latter is the culturally affected transference and countertransference. The participants will be invited to look at various meanings and images that an analyst from another culture may have for their patients. I will explore how multicultural and multilingual therapy is a patient's unconscious choice, and how the Wounded Healer archetype is activated, illustrating it with references with clinical material.

The Badder the Better: Why Bad Dreams are Good

Bad dreams are not pleasant, but things would be worse if we didn't have them. This understanding of bad dreams is not at all intuitive; in fact, most pre-scientific approaches view dreams as bad omens. That is why it is imperative that we share our knowledge of why bad dreams are so important.

Crossroad Dreams: Signposts towards Identity and Individuation

Crossroads are places where we can or must make life-changing decisions; they can be crucial situations of conflict in which we do not know which path to take. Crossroad dreams might appear when we, confronted with such a divide, are hesitant, afraid or even desperate to make a choice. Such dreams can be signposts on the path of individuation, leading us to find our true identity. One well-known example is Jung's dream in which he had to kill Siegfried and consequently renounce pursuing his ambitious academic career as a university professor in favor of his own individuation process.

Archetypal Symbolism in the Music Dramas of Richard Wagner

This module will analyse the representations of archetypal figures in the music dramas of Richard Wagner—including those of the father, the hero/heroine, the shadow, and the anima and animus. It will explore Wagner's portrayals of these archetypes in the context of the individuation process, and the ways in which the sung text and music evoke the encounter with them. Parallels will be drawn with phenomena encountered in clinical practice.

Fairytales as Analytical Tools: From Archetypal Symptom to Symbolic Cure

This two-part seminar follows an analytical case alongside “The Princess Who Was Transformed into a Worm,” tracing the symbolic stages of descent, confrontation with the repressed Feminine, devoted inner work, sacrifice of the old attitude, and psychic renewal. We are not seeking parallels to personal biography, but the archetypal patterns that emerge when a man begins to awaken from unconscious containment. Through dreams and fairytales, we explore how the unconscious Feminine draws the ego into transformative relationships – often through suffering, conflict, and sustained inner effort.

The Application of Intuitive Painting in a Psychiatric Inpatient Ward

Art therapy is regarded as a therapeutic approach based on non-verbal methods, encompassing multiple modalities. The aim is to promote health and recovery through active or receptive participation in expressive activities. Since March 2024, I have been leading weekly group sessions of intuitive painting with inpatients at a psychiatric hospital. The patients engage in intuitive painting based on the images and feelings that arise; afterwards they share their experiences. This lecture will discuss patients' participation processes as well as analyses of their paintings – the initial painting and the series of paintings.

CIPBS – Activation of Resources and New Chains of Associations through a Non-Linguistic Approach

CIPBS (Conflict, Imagination, Painting and Bilateral Stimulation) is a creative technique developed by C. Diegelmann. A stressful situation/feeling is transformed into a symbolic form and processed step-by-step with tapping, and with the help of the unconscious. In this seminar we will learn this creative and helpful technique and have the opportunity to practice it in small groups. It can also be used as a gentle trauma confrontation. This creative tool can easily be integrated into the analytical process.

New Animism and Jungian Psychology

The concept of animism was activated by contemporary ethnologists: they show us that people worldwide have a certain worldview: all is animated, even stones and brooks and the like. They all belong to the same community. This way of thinking is surprisingly quite compatible with many concepts of C.G. Jung: the archetypes, the transcendent function, but, above all, the attitude towards these entities. In the lecture I will present an overview of these parallels.

“Spirits of the Rocks” – Showing and Discussion of my Documentary Film

What is it about the Bushpeople (San) that touches something deep in us? With this question in mind, we set off to South Africa, Botswana and Namibia. Their extraordinary rock paintings lead us back into the world of our ancestors, the hunters and gatherers; they conjure up the early man in us, which – externally at least – has long been repressed and destroyed. Yet our journey also takes us to the Bushpeople who are still alive today. They share with us their myths and invite us to take part in their healing dance. In so doing, the Bushpeople restore our links with a way of life we have lost.

“Surrender to Ultimate Reality”: An Exploration of Mysticism in World Religions

This lecture offers an introduction to mysticism, with examples from Christianity and other world religions. Evelyn Underhill’s classical definition of mysticism implies a “surrender... to ultimate Reality... from an instinct of love” (Mysticism, 1911).

Jung wrote his major work Mysterium Coniunctionis about the alchemical union, the “central mystical experience of enlightenment ... aptly symbolized by Light in most of the numerous forms of mysticism” (CW XI, §828). What does this mean for the relevance of mysticism to Jungian psychology?

An elementary overview of Martin Buber’s (1878–1965) I and Thou and other notions from selected readings will be compared to Jung’s Analytical Psychology and some implications for psychoanalysis. The ensuing seminar(s) will focus on two aspects: Firstly, how do we understand Jung’s determination to differentiate belief in God as empirical truth from Buber’s more spiritual sensibilities? To what extent can belief in God be understood as a complex? Secondly, we will try to get a sense of their respective approaches and capacities for relationship.

“Is Life No More Than This?” – Meaning and Mattering in, and a Problematic of, the Twenty-First Century

The category of meaning is so vital in Jung’s thought that I would like to explore it as a problematic contemporary issue in literature, art, fairy tale and dream. We will reflect on both Jung’s own personal and collective experience and on therapeutic practice. My experience of the word and category/phenomenon of meaning is like St. Augustine’s experience of time: I know what it is until I have to explain or define it. Is it myth (Jaffe) and how does it relate to purpose (Mathers)? As a twenty-first century problematic, how does it relate to past human experience?

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

The Stages of Life: Individual and Collective

In his famous “Stages of Life” essay, Jung postulates the emergence of ego from fusion with the unconscious at birth to their union at death. He contrasts the first half of life, in which outer developmental goals are to be achieved, with the second, in which adaptation to the inner world is more important. I will pay special attention to the challenges of the mid-life transition when the centre of the psyche begins this shift from the ego towards the Self, and conclude by elaborating the potential for scaling this model up to understand some dynamics of the collective.

What Does Individuation Ask of Us?

We will explore foundational tasks and stages in a life well lived. Navigating the first half of life includes cultivating ego consciousness, encountering external reality, committing to a work, and developing fulfilling relationships. Moving into the second half of life involves engaging with the unconscious, finding meaning and purpose, and honoring our depths, creativity, and uniqueness.

The Meaning of Play – In General and In Particular

It is said that ‘play is the cradle of humanity.’ To better understand the deep psychological starting points for play therapy and play-based diagnosis, we will examine the anthropological dimension of play and the psychological insights into playing. The role of parents and caretakers in the development of early childhood play behavior will also be highlighted. Some important literature will be introduced with brief presentations. The seminar is meant to give space for the discussion of selected articles or chapters in relation to Jungian work and understanding.

Healing the Wounds of Trauma in Children: Safety, Love and Playfulness

Meeting traumatized children at the Children's House in the Bergen Police District has given me unique insight into the horrors of trauma and dissociation in these children. I will share a clinically rich and comprehensive overview of the trauma treatment and crisis intervention given. I will also bring in the deep experience of love, healing and playful approaches to serious problems in therapy, such as dreamwork, psychodrama, active encounter with inner figures, drawings and sand play.

The Divine Spark: How Psychic Energy Becomes Symbol

Jung viewed psychic energy as inherently transformative, stating as early as 1921, that “Fantasy as imaginative activity is identical with the flow of psychic energy” (CW 6, 1921, p. 722). This lecture will explore this underlying process which we have come to identify as the activity of the Self.

Some Classic Concepts of the Unconscious

We will look at some case vignettes from the point of view of various schools of depth psychology. We will compare their concepts of the unconscious and their approaches to its manifestations in dreams and symptoms. NOTE: This is basically the same course as in spring 2025.

What is a Psychosis?

We will set out on a journey that will lead us to an understanding of psychosis as a fundamental psychic phenomenon in humans. We will learn about the preconditions of its materialization, about potentially vulnerable life cycle phases and the reasons for that. We will come to an understanding of psychotic symptoms on a general and individual level, illustrated by examples from clinical and private practice. And we will understand how the Jungian concept of structure and functioning of what we call “psyche” furthers our understanding and blends in with recent results in science.

Living in Resonance with the Soul – Visions in the Red Book of C.G. Jung in Connection with a Clinical Case Study of Severe Trauma

This lecture describes the essential step in psychotherapy of entering into a direct inner and initiatory experience with the psyche as a living, self-existing entity within oneself. This humbling process transforms the individual into a more self-aware and differentiated human being, and can shape a new kind of therapist. I will present the therapeutic process of a severely traumatised woman, interweaving her material with the unfolding of the visions in the Red Book.

Wisdom's Roots: Exploring the Ego-Self Connection

Wisdom is framed as part of the individuation process, a journey towards integrating the demands of the Ego with the call from the Self.

Decoloniality and Individuation: Reconciling the Archetypal Wound

Colonialism is not only historical but also archetypal, shaping psyche, culture, and relations of power. I argue that decoloniality is an essential dimension of individuation: as Jung wrote, to individuate is to “gather the world to oneself.” This lecture explores how we each inhabit colonizer and colonized roles, and how everyday embodied decolonial practices – listening, restoring connection, questioning norms, reclaiming silenced parts – open the way to wholeness and authentic narrative.

Artistic Representations of Working Through, Transcendence and Closure

Many artworks explore aspects of human experience that are similar to those dealt with in clinical practice, when individuals are attempting to get to grips with challenging circumstances and/or difficulties originating in earlier periods of their lives. This seminar examines how works of art can offer insights into key aspects of the individuation process – including the containment of intrapsychic conflict, efforts at working through, integration of past experience and the shadow, as well as the experience of closure, transcendence, and new growth (or the failure to achieve these).

The Shadow: A Powerful and Influential Archetype of the Collective Unconscious

This seminar explores the role of the Shadow in Jungian analysis as a central archetype shaping individual and collective psyche. Special attention is given to guilt and shame that hinder the awareness of shadow projections. Clinical cases will illustrate the dynamics of acceptance of Shadow, as well as the influence of the cultural and collective Shadow (Umbra Mundi) on individuation.

Jungian Keynotes Lecture Series

The Dance of the Ego and Self in the Analysis

What drives and what guides us in the analyst's chair? How do we know when to act and when to wait? How do we choose the moment to speak and the moment to hold silence? And when might a tearful description of a spontaneous image or an outburst driven by frustration be precisely the right medicine?

Practical Problems When Commencing and Terminating Analytical Work

The seminar is open to all training and diploma candidates, also those who have previously attended. The aim is to provide tools to create the trustful atmosphere necessary for in-depth work and to avoid problems, as well as to terminate the work with no loose ends. Each session starts with a theoretical introduction, followed by role-play.
